

‘Sexual Violence, Medicine, and Psychiatry’

An International, Interdisciplinary Symposium on the Relationship Between Medicine, Psychiatry, and Sexual Violence
11-12 May 2021 (online)

Presentations

DISCUSSANTS

Joanna Bourke (SHaME, London)

Philip Dwyer (Centre for the History of Violence, Newcastle, Australia) Session 2 only

Stephen Frosh (Birkbeck, University of London), Session 1 only

Stephanie Wright (SHaME, London)

KEYNOTES

Sameena Mulla (Marquette University, Wisconsin, USA)

“Nursing Sexual Violence from the Stand: Victimized and Victimizing Bodies”

Gethin Rees (Newcastle University, UK)

“Post-controversy knowledge and scientific marginalisation in the courtroom: A case study of the alcohol-induced sleepwalking defence”

Amie O'Shea (Deakin University, Australia) and Patsie Frawley (Waikato University, NZ)

“Prevention of violence against women with disabilities”

SPEAKERS

Angélica Clayton (Yale University, Connecticut, USA)

“Traumatic Entanglements: Rape Trauma Syndrome and the interrelation of mind, body and environment”

Daniel Grey (University of Hertfordshire, UK)

“‘Witnessing New Laws Made and Fresh Crimes Created’: The British Society for the Study of Sex Psychology and Changing Ideas of Sexual Violence, 1913-1947”

Elizabeth Roberts-Pederson (University of Newcastle, Australia)

“Studying Sexual Violence in the Australian Military”

Evan Sedgwick-Jell (Birkbeck, University of London, UK)

“Sexualised Violence Prevention in Organisational Contexts”

Gabrielle Everall (University of Melbourne, Australia)

“Clitoridectomies and aversion therapy: Who says psychiatry hasn’t been sexually violent toward women?”

Jacqueline Sanchez Taylor (University of Leicester, UK)

“Framing Sexual Violence in Trafficking Discourse”

Kate Davison (University of Melbourne, Australia)

“Paraphilia or Harmful Sexuality? Explaining the Absence of Victims in Early Clinical Research on Rape & Paedophilia”

Lisa Featherstone (University of Queensland, Australia)

“Compensating Trauma: Medicine, Rape, and Redress in 1980s Australia”

Louise Stone (Australian National University, Australia)

“Achieving zero tolerance: Managing sexual abuse of doctors, by doctors”
(co-authors: Kirsty Douglas and Christine Phillips)

Ruth Beecher (SHaME, Birkbeck, University of London, UK)

“Dangerous Development: Historicising Responses to Children Exhibiting Sexually Harmful Behaviour”

Suzanne Egan (University of Sydney, Australia)

“On the Utility of Trauma as Feminist Practice”

Event details

The Sexual Violence, Medicine, and Psychiatry Symposium was originally planned in partnership with the Centre for the Study of Violence, University of Newcastle (Australia) as an in-person two-day symposium. It was set to take place over 16-17 April 2020 in Newcastle, Australia but was postponed in light of the global COVID-19 pandemic.

We’re thrilled to be able to reconvene many of the original speakers and present their work as video papers which will be discussed during an online symposium. You can view the videos on our website at any time here. The speakers will convene for two roundtable discussions on the following dates and times:

SESSION 1:

Tuesday 11 May 2021 / Wednesday 12 May 2021

15.00-17.00 BST (i.e. London, UK)

16.00-18.00 SAST (i.e. South Africa)

17.00-19.00 EEST (i.e. Athens, Greece)

09.00-11.00 CDT (i.e. Milwaukee, USA)

Many thanks for support from:

10.00-12.00 EDT (i.e. New Haven, USA)

on Wednesday 12 May 2021:

00.00-02.00 AEST (i.e. Sydney, Australia)

02.00-04.00 NZST (i.e. New Zealand)

SESSION 2:

Wednesday 12 May 2021

09.00-11.00 BST (i.e. London, UK)

10.00-12.00 SAST (i.e. South Africa)

11.00-13.00 EEST (i.e. Athens, Greece)

18.00-20.00 AEST (i.e. Sydney, Australia)

20.00-22.00 NZST (i.e. New Zealand)

03.00-05.00 CDT (i.e. Milwaukee, USA)

04.00-06.00 EDT (i.e. New Haven, USA)

(*time and date conversions have not been provided for all time zones. If you're unsure what time the event will take place in your time zone, please consult timeanddate.com)

Many thanks for support from:

